

2023 -2024 CAMPAIGN: ASK ME WHY!

A Campaign to Encourage Inquiry & Curiosity

The Northwell Faculty Development Council is here to support all of our faculty in creating an environment of inquiry. We encourage each of our teaching faculty to “don’t tell, ASK!” our residents, fellows, and medical students whenever a teaching opportunity arises.

How Can You Get Involved?

	Participate in a snippet at your next faculty meeting Please join your department’s teaching sessions on creating an environment of inquiry. There will be brief 15-minute snippet presentations with an interactive activity. You will have the opportunity to learn more about creating an environment of inquiry, how to use the Questioning Aid for Rich, Real-Time Discussion, and the power of asking why.
	Start asking questions Whenever a teaching moment arises, start asking questions. Questions help learners to develop higher-ordered thinking skills and the ability to critically analyze and create new knowledge. Learn more from our snippets and join our Teams Channel to connect with other faculty during this campaign!
	Share with us via our REDCAP survey We’ve created a short, three question survey that allows you to share your moments of inquiry and curiosity that happen this year. Encourage your trainee physicians and medical students to share their stories via REDCAP. We’ll be sharing the best moments with everyone at the end of the year.  Scan here to access the REDCAP survey and share!

Questions? Email Karen Friedman at kfriedma@northwell.edu